Historical Sketch:

In 1984, citrus canker was found in the state of Florida. The Florida Canker Project, a multi-agency collaboration, was formed in response to this outbreak in 1985. It was co-led by the Florida Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture who worked cooperativity with other government agencies, including the Florida Department of Citrus, in order to contain and eradicate this outbreak. Another, more widespread outbreak started in 1986, but it would later be declared exterminated in 1994.

Scope and Content Note:

The materials in this collection have been arranged into 3 series: Manual, Memorandums, and Stamps.

The Manual series consists of the manual used by members of the Project. The series is organized topically based on the manual's original order. Note that the Additions and Corrections subseries is not an original part of the manual and was created to better organize the materials.

The Memorandums series consists of memorandums and updates to and from the various members and agencies involved with the Project. This series is organized chronologically.

The Stamps series contains quarantining stamps used by the project.
