

Florida Project Citizen Showcase

Three Florida public schools will move forward to the national finals of the Project Citizen showcase. These include two schools from the Miami Dade County Public Schools and one school from St. Lucie County Public Schools. Due to the pandemic and related school closures, students submitted digital entries describing their selected problem and public policy solutions. Students also recorded presentations sharing details of their project-based learning model. The Justice Teaching Center at Florida Southern College sponsors the state-level Project Citizen showcase.
