

MUSIC PERFORMANCE

HONE YOUR SKILLS AS A MUSICIAN. PERFORMANCE LABS, INDIVIDUAL LESSONS, AND RECITALS WILL HELP YOU DEVELOP YOUR ARTISTRY AND PREPARE YOU FOR THE PROFESSIONAL WORLD.

Accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music, our program meets rigorous standards preparing you for graduate study and/or a career as a professional musician.

WHAT WILL I STUDY?

Your Bachelor of Music in Performance will allow you to develop advanced skills on your primary instrument or voice. With studies in music theory, history, and piano proficiency, you'll also explore the structure of music and the historical context of musical genres. In chamber and large-scale ensemble experiences, you collaborate with peers and coaches, in preparation for the performance of significant works of music.

AUDITIONS REQUIRED

As a competitive program, we require an audition after you have been accepted academically into Florida Southern. For requirements and other details, visit flsouthern.edu/auditions.

ONE FOCUS. AN ARRAY OF OPTIONS.

Our students have gone on to Bard, Duke, Eastman, Peabody, and the Manhattan School of Music — some of the country's finest music schools. They also hold positions with professional companies and ensembles, serve as faculty at major universities, and freelance as performing musicians in venues nationally and internationally.

EXPERIENCE IS KEY

Unlike large universities where graduate students sing lead roles and take first-chair instrumental parts, we offer you opportunities to perform from your first day on campus.

GROW YOUR SKILL SET —

Hone your skills in every style of music from sacred and classical to jazz and contemporary through our various ensembles. Collaborate on dance and musical theatre productions to further develop your abilities.

ENGAGE WITH THE ARTS

COMMUNITY — Central Florida boasts a dynamic arts community, and with faculty serving as principal players in such groups as the Florida Symphony, Orlando Philharmonic, and Sarasota Orchestras, you'll have a multitude of opportunities to attend performances, rehearsals, and interact with musicians.

LEARN FROM MASTERS —

Each semester renowned artists come to campus to share their experiences, offer insights on performance techniques, and provide sage career advice.

“ They took me as a beginner flutist and turned me into an exceptional one. I have a special connection with my professors, and I wouldn't have gotten that mentorship anywhere else.”

— Alejandra Santanilles '16;
Earned her M.M. from The Boston Conservatory of Music and is now a professional flutist