

MUSIC

INDULGE EXTENSIVELY IN THE STUDY AND PERFORMANCE OF MUSIC WHILE DEVOTING TIME TO OTHER AREAS OF INTEREST — YOU CAN PURSUE MULTIPLE MINORS OR EVEN A SECOND MAJOR!

Do you want to study two instruments? Do you have passions outside music you wish to pursue? This flexible option allows you to combine multiple interests into your own unique degree path.

WHAT WILL I STUDY?

Like your performance-focused counterparts, your Bachelor of Arts in Music will be rigorous, comprehensive, and performance-based. You'll take a core set of courses in music theory and history, private instrumental or voice lessons, and perform with our ensembles. Adhering to the liberal arts model, you'll gain proficiency in a foreign language while exploring other humanities like art and philosophy.

A WIDE ARRAY OF ELECTIVES FROM WHICH TO CHOOSE

Beyond that, you'll be free to explore courses in any area you choose. Complete multiple minors or an additional major. Want to diversify your music studies? Choose courses in music education or music management.

GOT AN EYE ON GRADUATE SCHOOL?

Accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music, you are guaranteed the same level of faculty mentorship and artist-level teaching as are students who opt for professional music degrees. However, the flexibility of our curriculum lends itself to the inclusion of pre-professional studies that lead to graduate work in areas like medicine, dentistry, physical therapy, and law.

LEARNING BY DOING

With performance as the common thread that links all study in music, you'll have numerous opportunities to apply the skills and knowledge gained in the classroom and studio – both in solo and ensemble situations.

PERFORMANCE LABS —

These classes allow you to perform for faculty and peer critique, receive instruction in pedagogy, and implement principles of performance learned in the studio.

ENSEMBLES —

Our numerous ensembles provide opportunities to collaborate with other musicians, work with talented conductors, and to perform on- and off-campus.

FESTIVAL OF FINE ARTS —

Take the same stage and perform for the same audiences as the Moscow Festival Ballet, the Tango Buenos Aires, Hilary Kole, and the Haifa Symphony Orchestra through this unique concert series.

“As a prospective student, I knew I wanted to pursue music and biology, and FSC was the only school that made it possible. My coursework expanded my perspective, and the two disciplines served to complement each other well and allow for a fuller, more mature understanding of the world to develop organically.”
